TRAITS

Everyone has traits. Traits describe what people are like. There are some people who believe that traits and names go together. For example, men who are named Paul are often thought to be honest and kind men. Words used to describe the traits of people are adjectives.

Pick out any six names from the list of names given on Page 39. After the name put the adjectives or traits that you think go best with those names. You may use any of the traits more than once. You may include any adjective that you believe goes with the name you have chosen.
